

Maggie Revealed

“On a wet and muddy scouting trip to the newly renovated Maggie Hathaway GC, I walked the property to identify some of my favorite angles. The portion of the course involving the third and sixth holes immediately caught my eye for low-flying drone shots. The next evening, I finally got the lighting that I was looking for. But it’s not just the lighting that makes this shot special. The fresh, untouched turf shines beautifully, contrasting with the colors of the surrounding neighborhood. The composition provides a sense of place and shows off this newly polished jewel in South Los Angeles.”
